QUIZ LEOPOLD IN JAIL BREAK PLOT

CONFRONT ALLEGED LEADER WITH STORY OF POISONING PLAN

Relatives Say Nathan Had No Money For Briberies

JOLIET, Ill., March 16.—Nathan F. Leopold, Jr., convicted son of a millionaire, who with Richard Loeb killed Bobby Franks for "a thrill," faced two lines of inquiry today as authorities sought additional details of a fantastic plot to empty Joliet penitentiary of its 1,200 inmates by poisoning all guards and officials.

Warden Elmer Green sought Leopold's own reaction to the arsenic poisoning story told by Leo Delgado, paroled convict and at the same time it was announced the Will County grand jury would be reconvened, with the young intellectual scheduled to be a key witness.

Leopold is said to have been the "angel" whose funds aided three condemned Mexican convicts to stage their dash for liberty from the Will County jail where they awaited execution for killing Deputy Warden Peter Klein in the Statesville penitentiary jail-break last May.

One of them, Bernardo Roa was still at large today. Gregorio Rizzo and Roberto Torrez were recaptured.

Leopold was also accused of being, with Charles Stepan, convict chief of the penitentiary, the "brains" behind the asserted plot to kill all guards and officials, paying the way for the escape of the 1,200 convicts at the institution.

Although Leopold's record caused authorities to believe he might have had a hand in the various delivery plottings under investigation, friends and relatives maintained he had received no money which would have enabled him to do all the bribing ascribed to him.

Miss Juanita Gallardo, 19, confessed sweetheart of Roa, was the other pivotal character through whom authorities hoped to solve the mystery still surrounding the manner in which the three slaves were able to procure saws and apparently bribe officials preliminary to their escape.

The woman while admitting she knew of the escape plans, has refused to admit she smuggled the saws to her countrymen.

YOUTH HELD AFTER NEAR FATAL FIGHT

COLUMBUS, O., Mar. 16.—While physicians at Mercy Hospital here were fighting to save the life of John Marlowe, 19, of Columbus, Sheriff Hammond of Logan was enroute today with Bob Williams, 42, of Nelsonville.

Marlowe's parol operator, who is said by police to have been rooming at the Marlowe home, where Williams also roomed, Marlowe is said to have a fractured skull, and hospital authorities were told that he was hurt in an automobile accident, when he was first brought there for treatment.

BOMB BANDIT HELD

Much Mixup

The excitement that accompanies every society wedding led to an embarrassing situation for Mrs. Barbara Stanfield Dunn (above), Washington beauty. After she had left on a honeymoon with Henry Tessedale Dunn, of Jacksonville, Fla., two New York modistes sued the bride's father, Senator Robert Stanfield, of Oregon, for $1,121, alleged to have been due on his daughter's trousseau. Mrs. Dunn explained that the bill had been overlooked. But mixups did not stop there. A picture of another girl was printed as Mrs. Dunn in connection with the suit. But this shows her as she really is.

MILLS FRUSTRATED IN ATTEMPT TO TALK TO PAT M'DERMOTT

Decision Permitting Conference Appealed Immediately

COLUMBUS, O., March 16.—Plans of E. L. Mills, attorney for Pat McDermott and Ben Rudner, convicted slayers of Don R. Mellett, Canton publisher, to talk privately with McDermott, a prisoner at Ohio penitentiary, were frustrated today.

When Mills appeared in the Columbus court of appeals today where the entry was scheduled to be made on a court order issued yesterday, permitting the attorney to confer with his client privately at the prison, Warden P. E. Thomas also appeared with assistant Attorney General Godown, who filed an appeal from the decision immediately.

Attorneys said this action would automatically take Mills' case to the supreme court and mean while will temporarily prevent execution of the appeals court's order and delay Mills' conference with McDermott until the supreme court rules on the case.

Warden Thomas pointed out that he has never denied Mills the privilege of conferring with McDermott, but has only refused to permit the attorney to see McDermott privately. He said that Mills could talk to McDermott in the warden's office, in the presence of an officer, at any time.

Under Ohio law, no fare can be collected, but riders may donate toward the expense of operation estimated to be $38 per day. It is hoped the riders will not be lax in "tips."

CHINA'S CIVIL WAR IS NEARING CLIMAX

Defender Of Shanghai Makes Offer To Withdraw If Paid Tribute—Cantonese Make Important Gains

China's civil warfare seems to be approaching a climax today, if there be some truth in the welter of rumor that comes from the far east.

Reports that the Cantonese have cut the Shanghai-Nanking railroad were again current today, although official confirmation is still lacking.

Paris newspapers report that in Honan Marshal Chang Hsiao Lin has captured Cheng Chow from his ancient enemy Wu Pei Fu, who has been forced to withdraw to Leyang. If this report be true then the Feng Tien troops have cleared one obstacle in their way for a drive against the Cantonese in Hankow.

General Chang Tsung Chang, present defender of Shanghai is reported to have ceased his demands for daily tribute from Shanghai and has placed a demand that he can be given $5,000,000 by Friday. If this tribute is paid it is anticipated that Chang Tsung Chang will withdraw to his own province and let Shanghai fall into the hands of the Cantonese. If his demand is refused it is said he has hinted that he will bring the war to Shanghai's doors with consequent looting and disorder as a menace. The nationalist leaders in the field have again reiterated their assurance they will not attempt to take Shanghai by force and will not order the military occupation of the city.

Marshal Chang Hsiao Lin is quoted as stating that he is prepared to issue a statement to the Chinese people urging a rapprochement between the north and the south, providing the Cantonese rid themselves of their alleged bolshevik influences. One reporter has it that General Chang Kai Shek, Cantonese military leader, is already treating with Chang Hsiao Lin but it is not clear whether he is attempting

SUSPECT ARRESTED AFTER POLICE FIND CURRENCY ON FARM

Fake Wire Forces Confession From Second Suspect

DETROIT, March 16.—Joseph Weckoski, 32, wanted in Pittsburgh in connection with the $104,000 armored car robbery near that city last week, waived extradition today and started back to Pittsburgh in custody of officers.

Weckoski, who was surrendered to local police last night by Mrs. Joseph Gowacki, a relative, denies knowing anything of the robbery.

About $30,000 in currency, said to be part of the loot, was found by Pittsburgh police yesterday hidden under a thicket on Weckoski's farm near Bentleyville, Pa.

Mrs. Gowacki said she induced Weckoski to come to the police station with her willingly when he called at her home last night shortly after detectives from headquarters had visited the place looking for him.

Taken to headquarters the suspect said he knew nothing of the loot found on his farm. He admitted he knew several strangers had been coming to his farm and conferring with a man hand lately, but he did not know for what purpose.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Mar. 16.—With the two men police alleged held the key to the solution of the $104,000 Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Company payroll car bombing and robbery in custody, and $30,000 of the loot recovered, detectives here today moved toward a complete solution of the case.

Paul Jaworski, suspect in the case, was shown a fake telegram which police told him was from Joseph Weckoski, suspect, in Detroit, confessing a part in the sensational bombing holdup. Jaworski led a squad of detectives to a case on the Weckoski farm, near Bentleyville, Pa., where hidden in a milk can, $33,000 in bills was found.

Jaworski police said, then admitted his part in the bombing, saying there were five men in the gang. He gave further information which officers hope to round up the entire gang shortly.

SLAYER WILL PLEAD DEFENSE HE SAYS

HAMILTON, O., March 16.—A Butler County grand jury was expected to be called today to consider the charges against Michael Foley, 22, held here on two charges of murder in connection with the slaying of his wife, Mrs. Catherine Foley, 21, and James K. Mitts, 53, Mrs. Foley's stepfather, early Tuesday.

Foley had been living apart from his wife for several weeks, and she had been staying at the Mitts' home.

Early Tuesday James Mitts was called to the door of his home and was killed by a volley from a shotgun; the slayer then rushed into the house and riddled Mrs. Foley with another shot.

Mrs. Bertha Mitts, wife of the slain man, was saved when the admitted by both sides, all questions of law having been determined by the court.

The trial is the second criminal proceeding growing out of the senate investigation in 1923-24 into the leasing of naval oil reserves. In the first, former Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall, and Edward L. Bohony, wealthy California operator, were acquitted of charges of conspiracy to defraud the government in the leasing of the Elk Hills California reserve.

In the present case, Sinclair is charged with contempt of the United States senate for having refused to answer certain questions propounded by the senate committee bearing upon his negotiations with Fall for the teapot dome, Wyoming, reserve. Both cases were executed in April, 1922.

CHARGE DROPPED

CINCINNATI, O., Mar. 16.—George Anglian, 16, will not have a murder charge pending against him when he completes a term in the reformatory for robberies enacted while he was the youngest member of the noted "highway terrorist" gang here. The charge that he participated in the murder of Mrs. Sherie Gildard, boarding house keeper, last January for which his two brothers, William, 27, and John, 26, are serving life terms, was nolleed today.

The young farmer apparently was none the worse this morning for his harrowing experience, although physicians had to administer aid when he was brought to the surface.

Ashworth was slightly bruised and cramped. He talked to the rescuers as they worked tirelessly throughout the night to reach him.

More than 500 persons had gathered around the well located a few miles from here, when the rescue was made. Shifts of three were relieved every half hour. The rescue work went on under the direction of J. D. Melver, a neighbor.

Ashworth was trapped when he was being let into the well to clean it out. Suspended by a rope a little more than half way down the 70-foot well, the sides of the well caved in, forming a virtual roof over him.

Mrs. Sarah Mildred Pettie Standish, twenty-three-year-old Virginia beauty and belle of Providence, R. I., was lodged in the East Cambridge, Mass., jail after her husband, Granville S. Standish, a descendant of Captain Miles Standish, declared he had found her in the room of Ormond Cook, Harvard law student. The woman vehemently denied wrong-doing. Standish recently sued for divorce, but lost his case when courts held that he had not come into court "with clean hands."

BILL PROHIBITING DANCES ON SUNDAY BARELY PASSES HOUSE

Senate Now Must Act On Hill Bill—Measure Opposed By Cities—Bill For Chiropractors Fails Of Passage

COLUMBUS, O., March 16.—The Ohio senate today is expected to act on the Hill bill prohibiting public dances and roller-skating entertainments on Sundays. The bill passed the house by a vote of 69 to 44 late Tuesday.

The bill will go to the senate unless the house today or Thursday reconsiders the vote by which it passed the measure and then defeats it. Legislative leaders do not think the house would reconsider its vote.

After more than two hours of oratory by fervid proponents and opponents of the measure, the Hill bill was subjected to a roll call which disclosed that eight members of various city delegations had lined up with members from rural counties in registering just enough votes to pass the bill. Exactly sixty-nine votes were necessary to pass it.

Immediately after completion of the first roll call, and before the speaker announced the result, Rep. J. F. Probeck, Toledo, changed his vote from yes to no, leaving the vote stand 68 to 42. The announcement of the vote was still further delayed while supporters of the bill went on a hunt for additional favorable votes. Clara Wood Derr, Republican, Cleveland representative, furnished the required vote to pass the bill.

The Hamilton and Lucas County delegations voted solidly against the bill. By a vote of nearly two to one, the house defeated the proposal of Rep. John A. Hadden, Cleveland, to amend the Hill bill by exempting from the measure.

Ohio chiropractors today were preparing to submit to Ohio voters by referendum, next November, their bill proposing a separate state examining and licensing board for chiropractors. Petitions containing sufficient signatures to insure the referendum will be filed with the secretary of state in a few days, it was stated.

The Hamilton and Lucas County delegations voted solidly against the bill. By a vote of nearly two to one, the house defeated the proposal of Rep. John A. Hadden, Cleveland, to amend the Hill bill by exempting from the measure.

RECOVER PORTION OF LOST DEADLY DRUGS

LONDON, Mar. 16.—After a frantic all-night search the police today recovered 170 of 240 tubes of deadly drugs which vanished yesterday while enroute to a hospital in the crowded east end district of London.

The tubes contained novarsens, one of the most potent poisons known. Police are energetically pursuing their search for their remaining seventy tubes of the poison.

Children, it was said, are especially in danger of being poisoned by the drug, as the tubes in which it is contained are packed in pretty orange colored cardboard boxes similar to candy boxes.

NEW LEXINGTON, O., March 16.—Parents of Carl Hynus, 21, whose body was found late Tuesday at the entrance of the Carney mine, today could advance no theory for his apparent suicide. The young farmer, it was reported, placed an shotgun on a heavy plank and pushed the trigger with a stick.

SAPIRO'S COUNSEL OUTLINES CASE FOR LIBEL SUIT JURORS

Billionaire Will Be Witness Attorneys For Both State

FEDERAL BUILDING, Detroit, March 16.—Henry Ford's long crusade against American Jews was made an issue today in the trial of the $1,000,000 libel suit brought against the auto king by Aaron Sapiro, Chicago attorney, and so-called "wheat king."

Outlining his case to the "half and half" jury of six men and six women, William H. Gallagher, chief of counsel for Sapiro, declared the youthful "wheat king" was libeled when Ford made him the target of the anti-Jew crusade. The Sapiro attorney described as "an ignorant Jew" in Ford's Dearborn independent assailed American Jews, an alleged band of international Jews and lastly centered upon Sapiro as a member of a "Jewish ring."

The scheduled appearance of Henry Ford as a witness against himself overshadowed the dry technicalities of the trial.

Ford was summoned, it was said, to prove to the typical "misunderstood" jury, sitting in judgment on the case, that his attacks on Sapiro through the Dearborn independent were prompted by an intense hatred for Jews. Ford's whole crusade against the Jewish race in America would be present in Sapiro's testimony as on the stand, even though the attorneys plan to oppose such a development all along the way.

Under present plans, Ford will take the witness stand Monday as an "adverse witness" for Sapiro. It will be his second appearance as a witness since he became one of the richest men in the world. Much interest will surround his testimony as on the stand, even though the attorneys plan to oppose such a development all along the way.

Two of his famous "bombs" were to describe Benedict Arnold as a writer and to testify that the Revolutionary war was fought in 1812. His knowledge of history may be tested again next Monday.

All that Ford would evade a subpoena was dismissed when his personal attorney, C. H. Longley, announced that the billionaire would be "present whenever asked by the court." The auto king however had been threatened with contempt proceedings before this announcement was made.

Sapiro meanwhile told International News Service that Ford declared Ford "would never dare to defy the court."

"Certainly Ford was served with a subpoena," said Sapiro. "Why he got so mad, he nearly knocked down the man who served him. We have an affidavit to that effect. He will be here when we want him to take the stand." Despite these statements, the betting odds here were even money that Ford would appear. On a dozen previous occasions, it was said, the auto king dodged court proceedings even after his appearance had been scheduled.

WOMAN TIED TO BED BY NEGRO BURGLAR

COLUMBUS, O., Mar. 16.—Police today were seeking a negro burglar who last night gagged and bound Mrs. Grace Lerch, to her bed and robbed her of $25. Mrs. Lerch, who is the wife of Frank Lerch, federal prohibition officer at Cleveland and Cincinnati, is a junior in the college of medicine at Ohio State University.

She was discovered tied to her bed early today by a fellow student who heard her moans. Mrs. Lerch told police she discovered the negro in her room about midnight when he jumped at her and rendered her unconscious. She was not otherwise harmed.

GOOD QUALITY SEED POTATOES NEEDED SPECIALIST STATES

Large yields of potatoes may be obtained in Ohio if good clean seed is planted on rich, well prepared and well fertilized soil, provided the crop is thoroughly sprayed to control insects and diseases, according to John Bushnell, assistant in horticulture at the Ohio Experiment Station.

The rural varieties are recommended for northern Ohio and early Ohio and Irish Cobbler for the southern part of the state. The seed must be free from disease to produce a large crop. If certified seed, which is safest, is desired, orders should be placed early as this seed is now moving rapidly.

White grubs are due to be serious next summer in northeastern Ohio, according to state entomologists. To avoid them potatoes should be planted on land that was cropped last year, but not on sod land.

A potato soil must be well drained and fertile. An application of about 1,000 pounds of 2-12-5 fertilizer per acre or a liberal application of manure and acid phosphate is recommended. Lime is not recommended for the potato crop.

Spacing the hills as close as nine inches on good soil is now a standard practice. This requires about twenty-five bushels of seed per acre.

Frequent sprayings of bordeaux mixture during hot weather is necessary to control leafhoppers, the insects that cause hopperburn.

PROGRAM COMPLETE FOR BENEFIT MOVIE STAGED FOR POLICE

Complete program has been perfected for the benefit moving picture show, sponsored by the Xenia Police Department, at City Hall Theatre Thursday and Friday, afternoons and nights.

The feature picture, "The Rat," a story of Apache underworld life in Paris, is billed a distinctly interesting production, with Ivor Novello, Mae Marsh and Isabel Jeans in the starring roles. A comedy entitled "Ham and Eggs" will also be shown.

An attractive feature of the show will be a minstrel by local talent. The cast will include fourteen or fifteen local people of proven merit as entertainers.

Included in the vaudeville part of each performance will be song numbers by the Xenia Buckeye Quartet, of radio broadcasting prominence.

Orchestral entertainment will be supplied by the Harmony Kings, Xenia melody-makers.

The matinee Friday afternoon is set aside exclusively for school children. Pupils may attend this afternoon performance for fifteen cents with tickets purchased at the box office. The matinee will start at 2 o'clock. An invitation has been extended to children of the O. S. and S. O. Home to attend the afternoon show Thursday and the Home Cadet Band will probably also appear.

Members of the department are well pleased with the ticket sale to date, indicating that capacity houses will witness the evening productions Thursday and Friday.

The show is the second to be held under auspices of the department and net proceeds will be used for buying new uniforms and equipment for officers.

Much credit is due Patrolman Fred Jones, who arranged details of the program and supervised sale of tickets.

BILL TO REGULATE PERSONNEL OF HOME BOARD IS ACCEPTED

COLUMBUS, O., March 16.—Bill sponsored by Senator L. T. Marshall, Xenia, providing for a change in the board controlling the O. S. and S. O. Home, was unanimously passed by the senate this afternoon.

Under the change, four members will be men who saw service during a war and one woman who becomes eligible if she served in a war, or is a mother, wife, sister or daughter of a veteran.

The bill requires that the child seeking admission to the Home, to the parents or guardian of the child, be a resident of Ohio for one year.

Woman Who Was Too Busy to Wed Succumbs to Suit of Senator

These two energetic figures in national life are to be united in marriage shortly. They are Senator Clarence C. Dill, of Spokane, Wash., and Miss Rosalie Jones, of Cold Spring Harbor, N. Y.

"General" Rosalie Jones—who once suggested that all babies be sent to farms in the country until they were five years old, and who, on another occasion declared she had too much to do in life to stop for marriage—is to be married!

This dynamic figure in American public life is to wed Senator Clarence C. Dill, Republican Senator from Washington, who is as much of a bundle of energy as his fiancée is.

His driving power caused the short session of Congress to enact the Dill-White Radio bill, creating the Radio Board, and one of the few bits of constructive legislation driven through.

Miss Jones' first great outlet for her energies was woman's suffrage. In 1915 she led a small army of women from New York to Albany to demand action by the New York State Legislature.

Thereupon she became known as "General" and the title has stuck.

Suffrage won, she still found life too busy to pause for marriage, although many men were reported to be willing to lay their hearts at her feet. She became an automobile mechanic—one of the first mechanettes in the country.

Later she took over the management of the estate left by her late parents, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Livingston Jones. This consists of property at Cold Spring Harbor, N. Y., where she maintains a residence, and at other places on Long Island. The estate was valued at $5,000,000 and would have required the services of at least two men, less energetic than Miss Jones, to administer. But she found time to do the work and engage in fights with attorneys over matters which she considered she knew more about than they.

Even this did not occupy all her time. Hardly a public question arose that Miss Jones was not to be found fighting on one side or another. She established an office in Washington as a base for civic activities.

It was in Washington as a member of the Jane Addams Peace Conference that she met Senator Dill, the "baby" of the Senate.

He is forty-two and she several years his junior.

The meeting was dramatic. Miss Jones, in company with several others, presented a number of questions to the Senator. He gave answers that she thought were evasive.

"I raked him over the coals," she said, and the women sailed triumphantly out of the office of the humbled Senator.

But Dill was impressed by the fiery young woman. For two weeks he sought her. Finally he was able to obtain a social introduction.

Romance budded. And now their wedding date has been set. Dill was born in Fredericks-town, Ohio, and is an alumnus of Ohio Wesleyan University. Miss Jones is a graduate of George Washington University.

She will keep her name for business purposes, she said, but will be Mrs. Dill at social functions in Washington.

And she doesn't intend to let her marriage keep her out of any gold scraps she thinks she ought to be in!

Your "Regular" Pain Now Needless

Menstruation is a perfectly natural process, but the painful part is NEEDLESS. Long study has absolutely conquered menstrual pain. Science now offers women reliable and complete relief—in a simple, utterly harmless tablet called Midol.

This newest achievement of the laboratory has nothing to do with drastic, habit-forming drugs that kill pain by numbing the whole system! Midol acts directly on the organs affected by menstruation, and nowhere else. Yet relief and absolute comfort come in five to seven minutes!

So, why have a twinge of pain—feel "low" or even uncomfortable? Or take anything to depress the heart or upset the system? All drug stores have Midol in a thin aluminum box that tucks in purse or pocket—for 50 cents.

WHAT to WEAR and HOW to WEAR IT

By LUCY CLAIRE

Favorite Fashion Adviser

There is a certain formality and delicacy about lace that has not seemed to fit into our mode for several seasons. To a certain extent, lace has always been used for dinner frocks and it probably always will be, but there has seemed no other place for it in our simple tailored lines.

But we have become so overwhelmed with the importance of the two-piece frocks, that we interpret them in all materials and adapt them to wear for all occasions so why not make them in lace as well?

The very fine spider-web silk and shadow lace is only appropriately combined with a material of equal sheerness such as georgette crepe, triple voile or chiffon. The softer, pastel tones are far prettier than vivid colorings and sometimes just a few threads of gold or silver are used to accentuate the pattern.

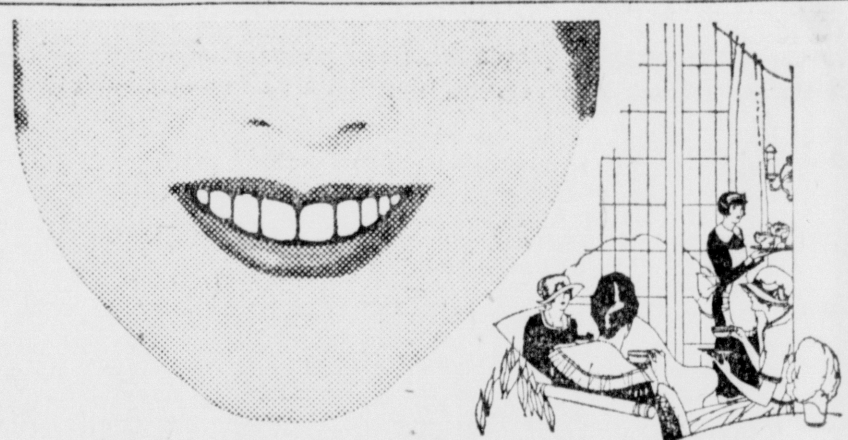

The little two-piece frock at the right is just the thing for an afternoon bridge to be followed by tea dancing later. It is made of a dull cornflower blue lace—the skirt slightly circular and the blouse in straight lines. A narrow band of doubled georgette crepe makes a substantial hem on the skirt as well as the blouse. The same blue makes the slip foundation for both blouse and skirt. The patterns in many of these pieces of lace are so lovely that it seems a pity to damage their effectiveness by a lot of unnecessary trimming. I like the simple reverse collar which terminates in a long loose bow-knot.

The dress shown at the left is suitable for a tall slender woman and is of slightly more matured lines than the one shown at the right. The pattern in the lace is fine and solid with no border effect whatever. The straight waist and long close fitting sleeves are of all-over lace. From a slightly lowered waist-line, the fine accordion pleated skirt falls in a matching shade of cream colored chiffon. To achieve a perfect unity of these two fabrics, the chiffon has been carried onto the lace blouse in collar and looped tie, so in the same manner, the lace is carried onto the chiffon skirt in a twelve-inch panel set in both front and back. Even the little bow-knot trimming has been carried onto the skirt in a series of three tied bands which tend to becomingly lengthen the waist-line.

For formal evening wear or even as an accessory to one of these lace frocks, I like the wide lace scarf like the one I have pictured in the center. This particular scarf was worn low about the shoulders and drawn toward the left side in front where it was fastened with a large fluffy chiffon flower.

The dresses I have shown you reflect the outstanding tendencies of the present mode and my ob-

Beautiful Teeth

Are very easily stained
Magnesia removes that stain

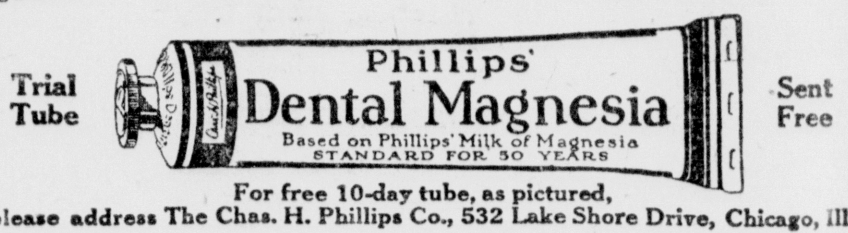

There is always a coating on your teeth, called plaque. It clings and stays. Fruits, coffee, tobacco, etc., stain that plaque, just as they stain napkins. That is why teeth grow dingy.

Phillips' Dental Magnesia tooth paste removes that plaque in the quickest and best way known. Then those cloudy teeth will glisten. The prompt results will amaze and delight you.

But Phillips' Dental Magnesia does far more. Acid is the cause of tooth decay. It is formed between the teeth and in crevices by fermentation of sugar and starch. It is the greatest enemy of the teeth and gums.

Phillips' Dental Magnesia tooth paste penetrates those crevices. It neutralizes acids instantly. It contains Phillips' Milk of Magnesia—a powerful alkali—in concentrated form. Dentists have recommended it for fifty years to make mouth acids harmless.

Here is the greatest tooth paste men have yet created. It does all things needed in the most efficient way. You should learn how much it means to you, and find that out at once. You will never again go to sleep at night without this matchless tooth protection. Go prove this now.

WARS AND SCHOOL BOOKS

A professor of history in Connecticut College, writing the Advocate of Peace, gives a vivid example of the lopsided way in which history is still written. He tells of two schools, one German and the other French, on opposite banks of a little stream which constitutes the Franco-German boundary.

"Hans, what caused the World War?" asks the teacher on the German side. And Hans, repeating the lesson he has just learned from his history textbook, says:

"English jealousy and French revenge were the chief among many causes. Germany is guiltless."

"Francois," asks the teacher in the French school, a stone's throw away, "what caused the World War?"

"The war," replies Francois, "was caused solely by German aggression. The Germans, believing themselves to be a superior race, had plotted to exterminate the French."

There are similar differences in the views aught regarding the peace treaty. Hans states, with the approval of textbook and teacher, that it is "a peace of enslavement and a gross breach of the Allies' pre-armistice promises." Francois states, with similar approval, that it is "a peace of justice, based on Mr. Wilson's Fourteen Points, whereas the Germans planned for us a peace of slavery."

Hans and Francois cannot both be right. The teachers cannot both be right. The text book writers cannot both be right.

Every nation, however, insists on writing its own history, with its own viewpoint, making school histories the greatest of all systems of propaganda and the source from which spring new wars.

WHAT IT MEANS TO BE "GREAT"

Was Washington really a gin-smelling, fox-hunting slave owner who spelled "cat" with two t's? So he is pictured in revised modern histories. For it seems that it requires heroes to be surrounded by fanatic tales.

This explains why Tom Paine, one of the founders of the United States, is spoken of as a "nasty little atheist, who died a coward in moral fear of hell." And the ghost of Marie Antoinette still promenades at midnight her corridors of Versailles, scenes of her former glory. That must have been before the women from the Paris markets cooked a dead horse under her balcony, asked her to come out and have a piece. Later, the fishwives helped cheer when the queen perished on the guillotine.

So runs the world away, such the fascination of those fanatic tales with which popular fancy invests its heroes and heroines.

One or two more: Mr. Rockefeller, famous citizen of Cleveland, in his time suffered ferocious abuse from one end of America to the other, but this day is conceded to be a most useful citizen. Fred Funston, former "bouncer" for the Santa Fe railroad, gained fame when the cables from Manila, told how he was swimming rivers to get at the enemy, single handed; dry streams, it afterwards turned out, but the news caught the popular fancy and the ex-Ohio, Missouri and Arkansas "scrapper," 5 feet 5 inches tall, became a national hero.

Napoleon on horseback crossing the Alps on his fiery war-steed, there amidst the eternal snows of Grand St. Bernard, such is David's heroic painting known and immensely admired by school boys. But in reality Napoleon crossed on a mule belonging to an inhabitant of St. Pierre, would not mount until the prior of the convent assured "It is the surest of all animal in these parts."

"Men," wrote Seneca 2,000 years ago, "are but children, too; for though they have gray hair, they are indeed children of a larger size."

THE HOSPITABLE WEST

SUMMER VACATION PLANS

Keeping HEALTHY

by Dr. A.F. Currier

YOUR "HEADACHE" MAY BE MIGRAINE

This is also sometimes called hemiplegia because it usually involves only one side of the head. It is also known as sick, bilious, or neuritic headache. It is often preceded for several hours or even a day or two by dullness, drowsiness, and general discomfort. After a while there comes in distinctness of vision, spots of sensitiveness on the head, and face, perhaps loss of voice and more or less mental confusion. Then the head begins to ache in ear-ear, nest in the temple, the eye, or back portion of one side, and it may spread and increase in severity until in some cases both sides may be very painful.

The pain may be violent and throbbing, accompanied with dizziness, intensified by light, by the slightest sound, by motion, or by the least mental effort. Perhaps there may also be nausea and vomiting, with the ejection of bile, which is bitter and acrid. The face is sometimes flushed, sometimes pale, but the pulse is slow and strong; there is no desire for food and the patient feels mean and most miserable.

This may go on for a few hours or even for a day or two and it is particularly common in women, more so than in men, coming on periodically from young womanhood until the end of the child-bearing period. Even little children suffer with it, and when it occurs with them it must not be forgotten that this is also one of the early and important symptoms of meningitis.

It is often associated with chronic constipation, and whether in old or young, it may be provoked by some error in the diet or by the influence of poisons generated in the intestine from retained and decomposed food. When the headache has reached its limit the patient may fall asleep or be induced to sleep by suitable medicines which are given for that purpose. Hence it should not be forgotten that the great thing in the ailment is to produce sleep. When the sufferer awakens the chances are that the headache will have vanished.

The tendency to this kind of headache may be due, as I have said, to persistent constipation, to eye strain or some other kind of eye trouble, or it may be due to overwork in school or in business, to worry or to want of exercise. Those who are subject to it should live simply on food that is easily digested, particularly at times when an attack is about due. There should be a daily hot or cold bath, according to the reaction in given cases and constipation should be averted by frequent use of salts, or castor oil, or cascara or mineral oil, or mercury when there is tenderness of the liver or vomiting of bile.

Five or ten grains of quinine before an expected attack will sometimes ward it off or mitigate it. During the attack ice may be applied to the head or a mustard leaf to the back of the neck, the mustard being removed as soon as the skin is blistered. Drugs which are often of service in relieving the pain are caffeine, camphor, phenacetin and the fluid extract of guarana.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

S. E. P.—Six months ago I began to have loose bowel movements, and in that period I have lost twenty-five pounds. There is no pain, but there is tenderness over the abdomen and stomach, the abdomen is bloated with rumbling of fluid on the left side and a peculiar sick feeling. The movements of the bowels are very loose, but there is no temperature.

Answer—Your story sounds like tuberculosis of the peritoneum. It would be well for you to consult a specialist in tuberculosis and have a test made with tuberculin. I am telling you this as a matter of precaution and because I assume that there are specialists in tuberculosis you can consult.

Ask Dr. Currier that medical question that has been puzzling you. Confine your letter to fifty words and send stamped, addressed envelope for reply. He cannot, of course, make individual diagnoses, and he reserves the right to decide as to the propriety of queries.

The Theatre

Turning the tables, matrimonially speaking, is the basis of Warner Brothers' latest production "Don't Tell the Wife," starring Irene Rich, at the Bijou, Wednesday night.

Mrs. Rich and Hurd Gordon, who are the Cartiers of Paris, well-to-do, devoted, just arrived at the ending of their seventh year of married life. A merry whimsical fantasy on the subject of new wives and old, with the veil but by no means hidden suggestion that the old and tried affinity may quite often be more desirable than the "old ironies," is unfolded in the plot.

The newspaper profession, which was dignified by Edmund Burke as the Fourth Estate, has supplied a number of the outstanding personalities of picturedom. Of the important directors, Monta Bell, David Wark Griffith, Luther Reed, Clarence Badger, J. Stuart Blackton, Monte Brice were newspaper reporters. Malcolm St. Clair, Gregory La Cava and Larry Semon were comic cartoonists. Clive Brook, the English actor, was a journalist on Fleet Street.

James Cruze used to be a waiter in a Sacramento hotel. The distinguished producer of "The Covered Wagon," "Old Ironsides," and other fine films, is proud of his ability to carry plates and dishes. Once, it is related, Cruze was on location in Wyoming. A local scribe was in the gathering that assembled after the day's work was ended. The talk switched to Mark Twain.

"I had a talk with Mark, once," Cruze recollected, casually rolling one of his own cigarettes.

"You did?" ejaculated the reporter, whipping out his pencil and note paper.

"Yes," said Cruze. "To was in the old Mission Hotel in Sacramento. I was working there as bus boy at the time. Mr. Twain turned to me, took his cigar out of his mouth and said, 'Boy, bring me another cup of coffee.'"

KELLYGRAMS

WHAT RESTRICTION BOTHERS YOU MOST?

A doctor friend of mine told me last night that he had just discharged his young woman office assistant largely because she was too efficient.

"If I tried to sneak out of the office early some afternoon," he said, "she would remind me that it was not quite the end of my regular consultation period. In a dozen ways she me too steadily on the job. I was not entirely my own boss. In the future I shall try to get along without any assistant."

I know another man who keeps his telephone number out of the directory. "If the number is available," he explains, "and I answer phone calls, somebody is sure to ask me to do something that I don't wish to do. People make requests by phone that they wouldn't make if they met you face to face."

Still another friend tells me that whenever anybody suggests a dinner or theater party, or any other kind of engagement in advance, no matter how pleasant in itself, his first impulse is to offer some imaginary reason why it will be impossible to go.

"If I have an engagement for next Monday night," he explained, "I am not a free agent that night. If something unexpected comes up, if I'd prefer to do, I'm already booked."

"What a variety of queer notions people have."

But on second thought, I recognized that these were all off the same cloth. All were prompted by the fundamental human desire to maintain individual freedom of action. Few of us can ever do entirely as we please, but all wish we could.

A judge who has tried hundreds of divorce cases recently told me that when husbands and wives wish to separate and lead their own lives, the commonest cause isn't that they have ceased to love each other, but that in spite of their mutual affection living together means too many restrictions.

Few grown people care to live with kin folk, simply because relatives, with perhaps the best of motives, are almost certain to interfere with what one wishes to do.

The most unpopular laws are not those which prevent us from hurting or annoying others, but which are designed to keep us from harming ourselves. Each of us thinks that he himself should be the sole judge of what is good or bad for himself.

Ask yourself: What particular restriction on your freedom of action chafes you most?

Little Old New York

NEW YORK March 16.—The originator of the ice cream soda died the other day and his passing earned but a scant paragraph here and there in the press of the country.

His name was Guy, and he had just hobbled past the Eighty-first Milestone. He was a great man—as great as the genius who first conceived pink lemonade, the inventor of the buckwheat pancake and that other marvel of mankind, the concoctor of the chocolate caramel.

There are too many monuments and bronze plates in this world, commemorating the lives of military men, poets, painters and statesmen. What we need are a few memorials, judiciously scattered, lauding the patience, perseverance and all-round human qualities of the gent who wore out their lives perfecting the gum drop, the peanut bar, molasses taffy, all-day suckers and the low-neck pumpkin pie.

Not in bread alone doth man live.

Six assistants in the federal district attorney's office in New York were overpaid one cent in the last salary checks. The government reimburses its employees monthly, checks being written for one-twelfth of the yearly stipend. When a fraction of a cent develops, it is computed to the nearest penny. The six assistant attorneys received each a full cent when the fraction was less.

A thick-lensed investigator of Little Things discovered the error. There was much correspondence and finally a representative of the auditing branch of the department of justice was sent from Washington to New York to collect the overpay. Rectifying the six-cent error cost the government $15.

Two real estate men pleaded guilty a year ago to fracturing the Commandment against theft. The Larceny Lads appeared before Judge Donnellan last week in a glow of benevolence to report that they had repaid $27,000 of the $100,000 fished from poor men and women.

"I suppose," said the Judicial Owl, "you made restitution only to those who prosecuted you. I know your breed. I am going to postpone sentence for two months to give you a chance to make complete restitution to everybody you've swindled. And mind you, no preferred creditors. Pay it all back to every victim."

There's a judge who believes that justice should be tempered not only with mercy but likewise mixed with a little common sense.

Bill Miller stationed himself in Mrs. Gertie Becker's back yard one afternoon a year ago and to the vanishing of a vintage guitar and the peppy comment of neighbors, poured forth protestations of undying love.

Gertie stuck her head out the window and asked him wouldn't he please go away. The request prompted renewed vocal vigor. Then the lady tossed a geranium at him, without the formality of first removing it from the pot. He dodged the bloom without missing a note. Then Gertie called a coy and Bill went to the Bastille for a twelvemonth.

He emerged a few days ago, retrieved his guitar from its cache and immediately resumed his troubadour activities where he had left off. Gertie had him arrested again charged with "singing in her back yard, refusing to quit when admonished so to do, and annoying her with gestures and importunities."

Bill's gone away again but this time only for ninety days. When he emerges once more it will be June-time. The roses will be in bloom, happy songsters will be carolling amid pink and white tossed petals, And Gertie fears the worst.

SIGNIFICANT SAYINGS OF THE DAY

"I shall never return to Europe. I am getting too old. I have crossed the Atlantic seventy times. The best proof I am getting old is the fact that I am losing the thrill of gambling. Perhaps it is because I lost at Monte Carlo for the first time in thirty years."—Charles M. Schwab, steelmaster.

"A man retiring at 70 would die in three years. I don't ever wish to retire. It will only be when the doctors bring in the oxygen cylinder that I'll know it's time for me to quit. The trouble with most men is they hurt their machinery too much. If they like a certain thing they overdo it. They eat too much, drink too much, sleep too much and tire too soon."—Thomas A. Edison, inventor.

"If college graduates arrive at effectiveness and distinction it is more because of happy accident and because the material that comes up to college is good than by virtue of the college training itself."—Commissioner Frank P. Graves of the New York state department of education.

MAKING MODERN MENUS

Pineapple has been occupying a conspicuous place in the modern menu serving as an accompaniment to the meat course and figuring prominently in a variety of delicious desserts.

PINEAPPLE PUDDING

Slice fruit and fill a pan half full. Sprinkle with one-fourth cup of sugar and pour in one-fourth cup of water. Make a batter of one-half cup of sugar, one-fourth cup of butter, half a cup of sweet milk, one cup of flour with one heaping teaspoon of baking powder sifted in. Stir all together and spread over the fruit. Bake or steam until done, about thirty minutes. Serve with whipped cream.

For the after-theater supper or the quick luncheon cheese monkey is often acceptable.

CHEESE MONKEY

Soak one cup of stale bread crumbs in one-half pint can of tomato soup. Melt one tablespoon of butter and add one cup of cheese cut in fine pieces. Stir until the cheese melts, add crumbs and seasonings and cook and stir until mixture boils. Add egg beaten slightly, stir and cook one minute and serve on small crisp crackers or toast.

Do you remember when Anita Stewart, Harry K. Morey, Harry Northrup, and other "old timers" appeared in "The Million Bid" at the Bijou? That was many a year ago, we are not ashamed to admit, and what again recalled it to our mind was the announcement that "The Million Bid" is the latest feature of Alan Crosland and was recently given to Broadway. Dolores Costello, daughter of Maurice, is starred in the new production and if we remember correctly her dad played a lead in the old picture. We hope we're not mistaken in taking it for the same story, for we certainly would like to see it again.

SALLY'S SALLIES

Love makes the world go 'round, they say, so does hooch.

You will save some time and trouble if, as you iron, you stack your clothes into piles according to the rooms in which they will be put away.

WIFE PRESERVERS

These tousel heads, these little hands, Turning to me in love and trust, Will bind my heart with golden bands, Until my flesh and bones are dust.

Time cannot take their touch away, Nor steal the precious memories That I have stored from day to day As they have leaned against my knees.

No matter what the years may bring, My mind can re-create at will The way they laugh and move and sing— And I shall have my babies still.

I shall have piled-up wealth indeed, When memories are so beautiful. My love insurance, guaranteed To keep my whole life rich and full!

Greene County Lumber Co., Is Given Lumber Contract—Concrete And Carpentry Work Not Let—Cost $14,000

Plan and the lumber bid of the Greene County Lumber Co., for the new grandstand to be erected this summer at the county fairgrounds were accepted by the fair board at a meeting Tuesday afternoon.

Bid of the lumber company was not disclosed but with two contracts for the concrete and carpentry work yet to be awarded, fair board officials estimate the total cost of the proposed stand will be approximately $14,000.

Other firms submitting bids were McCurran Bros., contractors, and the McDowell and Torrence Lumber Co.

The new grandstand will have a seating capacity of 1,600. It will occupy practically the same location as the former structure with the exception the new site will be at least thirty feet back from the guard fence along the race track.

In the intervening space it is expected to provide standing room for about 800 spectators.

Bids for the carpentry and cement work will be received Thursday noon and construction of the foundation will start about April 1 within five days after the preliminary contracts are let.

It is planned to have the foundation in place by May 1 and the entire structure completed in time for use at the annual county fair in August.

Dimensions for the new stand give it a depth of forty-eight feet and length of 168 feet. It will have a concrete base of five and one-half

SOPHOMORES BEAT SENIORS IN CLASS BASKETBALL GAME

Springing an upset, the sophomores triumphed over the hitherto undefeated seniors 17 to 15 in an intra-mural class game at Central High School gym Tuesday afternoon.

The victory enabled the sophs to go into a tie with the seniors, each with only one setback, for leadership among the four classes.

Snyder was the offensive star for the winners with eight points. Haverstick topped the seniors with six markers. Both players are guards.

As the class games draw to a close, there is a possibility of a tie for first place. Lineups:

Seniors (15) Sophomores (17)
Sutton Grandin
Henrie McPherson
Cramer Jones
Haverstick Scurry
Heaton Snyder
Field goals—Snyder 4, Scurry 2, Jones 1, McPherson 1, Henrie 2, Heaton 2, Haverstick 1. Foul goals—Grandin 1, Haverstick 4, Henrie 1. Substitutions: Sophomores—Wood for McPherson; McPherson for Wood. Referee—Victor Kolb.

PAXON WELL EARNED HONOR OF ALL-STAR COURT SELECTION

Lester Paxon, Cedarville High School freshman forward, was awarded the honor of being placed on the second all-tournament team of the Class B division in the southwestern regional tournament held at Dayton.

Paxon clearly earned the position by his excellent playing while Cedarville was in the tournament but it was his outstanding play in the Plattsburg contest that netted the diminutive forward his berth. In this game he broke loose with a volley of five baskets and one charity counter besides playing a great defensive game.

Jones, Cedarville's flashy colored forward was considered by the officials but his inability to find the hoop in the Plattsburg game cost him a place. Jackson also was a high light but he encountered the fate of playing a guard position and the good floor guards in the tourney were numerous.

This is Paxon's first year in inter-scholastic athletic competition and a great future is predicted for him if he uses his ability to the best advantage. He played end on last fall's football eleven and the little fellow proved to be the find of the season.

EIGHT PLAYERS TO BE GIVEN LETTERS

Letters will be awarded eight members of Central High School's 1926-27 basketball squad, including the senior manager, at a special assembly period Friday afternoon in Jean B. Elwell Auditorium.

Coach Victor Kolb will present the "coveted X's" to the athletes. Players to receive letters are: Captain Fred "Bull Dog" Smith, forward; Howell Huston, forward; William Clemans, center; Robert Morton, forward; Leroy Oak, guard; Hall Hill, center; Max Marshall, guard; and Homer Henrie, senior student manager.

ACID IN STOMACH SOURS THE FOOD

SAYS EXCESS OF HYDROCHLORIC ACID IS CAUSE OF INDIGESTION

A well-known authority states that stomach trouble and indigestion are nearly always due to acidity—acid stomach—and not, as most folks believe, from a lack of digestive juices. He states that an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach retards digestion and starts food fermentation; then our meals sour like garbage in a can, forming acid fluids and gases, which inflate the stomach like a toy balloon. We then get that heavy, lumpy feeling in the chest, we eructate sour food, belch gas or have heartburn, flatulence, water-brash or nausea.

He tells us to lay aside all digestive aids and instead get from any pharmacy four ounces of Jad Salts and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast, while it is effervescent, and furthermore, to continue for one week. While relief often follows the first dose, it is important to neutralize the acidity, remove the gas-making mass, start the liver, stimulate the kidneys and thus promote a free flow of pure digestive juices.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and sodium phosphate. This harmless salts is used by thousands of stomach sufferers with excellent results.

JUDGMENT AGAINST POSTAL TELEGRAPH COMPANY APPEALED

An appeal has been taken to Common Pleas Court asking reversal of a judgment of R. O. Copsey, justice of the peace, awarding $250 damages to M. D. Flack in his suit against the Postal Telegraph Co.

Flack collected damages in reparation for personal injuries sustained when the defendant company, he alleged, allowed a telegraph pole hole to be unguarded at night and he accidentally fell into it.

Defendant filed a motion to dismiss the action on the ground there is no such company as The Postal Telegraph Co., but it was overruled and judgment given.

GRAND JURY IN LONG SESSION EXAMINES THIRTY WITNESSES

Confronted by perhaps the heaviest criminal docket in several years, the grand jury for the January term, meeting in recess session, was still engrossed with the investigation of top or more cases early Wednesday afternoon, after being in continuous session a day and one-half.

There was little to indicate the jury would complete its deliberations before later Wednesday afternoon.

During the course of its deliberations the jury was expected to examine more than thirty witnesses subpoenaed in the ten cases.

With taking of testimony and presentation of state's evidence only partially completed, the jury was released at 4:20 o'clock Tuesday afternoon by Judge R. L. Gowdy, and convened again early Wednesday morning.

Since the custom was adopted of having the grand jury meet on two different occasions during each term of court, it has been an unusual occurrence when the docket has not been cleared by a one-day's session.

Not since October, 1925 has a grand jury taken more than one day to complete its investigations. Usual examination of the County Jail was not made by the jury at its regular meeting in January. To make up for this deficiency the jurors were scheduled to pay the customary visit to the county bas-

GRAND JURY IN LONG SESSION EXAMINES THIRTY WITNESSES

Confronted by perhaps the heaviest criminal docket in several years, the grand jury for the January term, meeting in recess session, was still engrossed with the investigation of top or more cases early Wednesday afternoon, after being in continuous session a day and one-half.

There was little to indicate the jury would complete its deliberations before later Wednesday afternoon.

During the course of its deliberations the jury was expected to examine more than thirty witnesses subpoenaed in the ten cases.

With taking of testimony and presentation of state's evidence only partially completed, the jury was released at 4:20 o'clock Tuesday afternoon by Judge R. L. Gowdy, and convened again early Wednesday morning.

Since the custom was adopted of having the grand jury meet on two different occasions during each term of court, it has been an unusual occurrence when the docket has not been cleared by a one-day's session.

Not since October, 1925 has a grand jury taken more than one day to complete its investigations. Usual examination of the County Jail was not made by the jury at its regular meeting in January. To make up for this deficiency the jurors were scheduled to pay the customary visit to the county bas-

TO TAKE DEPOSITIONS

An application is on file in Probate Court to admit to probate the will of the late Arthur O'Hara. It will be given a hearing March 22 at 10 a. m. The court decided that Charles A. Henderson and Lucile A. Henderson, witnesses to the will, are without the jurisdiction of the court, and authorized J. Fred Anderson to go to Springfield and take their deposition.

TO BORROW $2,000

In the case of Fred F. Barrett, as guardian of Julia Wade, imbecile, against Julia Wade and others in Probate Court, the guardian was authorized to borrow $2,000 from the Home Building and Savings Co. on real estate of his ward to meet necessary expenses to be incurred in caring for her by reason of her condition. The court determined that funds in the hands of the guardian are insufficient for the purpose and will soon be exhausted.

No Cold In 5 Yrs.

The writer has not had a cold in five years. He catches colds from contacts, just as others do. But at the first sneeze he takes HILL'S. I have proved that colds do not develop when one does that.

But there are other things that millions know. HILL'S checks a cold in twenty-four hours after it has developed. It ends the fever, opens the bowels, tones the entire system. It leaves one feeling better than when the cold began.

HILL'S combines four of the greatest helps modern science has discovered. It was perfected by one of the world's largest laboratories. It is so efficient, so well-proved that the present owners paid $1,000,000 for it.

Nobody who knows what HILL'S can do will ever use a lesser help. Nor will they delay.

FUN FOR THE WHOLE FAMILY

Just AMONG US GIRLS

by Kathryn Kenney

"HOW YOU WEAR IT"

Many a woman with a big price on her head looks like two cents. It isn't what kind of a hat you wear, but how far down you wear it. A one-woman top may work up by itself! And then you have to push it down!

Some women can put their husbands' mouths into a hat and it's enough to make the men lose from then on! There are some people whose taste is all in their mouths—others pick out gold teeth!

Some women want every dollar personally represented when they buy a hat. Others are satisfied with getting results over a period of days and have no desire to close up the town.

It is well to remember when sight! The most expensive hats are the simplest in design. It really seems as though a woman had to pay to keep off the grass and the pet-rified parrots!

Some women who look as though they were born grown-up, make for poke bonnets that are trimmed with insolent rabbits. They want something to travel in, and they get their wish.

The hat may be $40—but it's worth it, if you have a sense of humor. Some girls have the knack of wrapping a coat about themselves so that it looks as though it had a permanent residence. Others just let it take its own course in the wind.

As long as we must wear clothes

THE MORNING WRAPPER

you are getting something in weight lifters for the head that there will be another summer and more roses unless you insist on using them all at one time.

A good eye in buying clothes is better than a bank balance any day. A good-looking hat has gotten a woman everything from a seat in the street car to a seat in the legislature.

Many a divorce has been granted because of a "merry widow." Remember, justice may be blind, but the jury all have their eye.

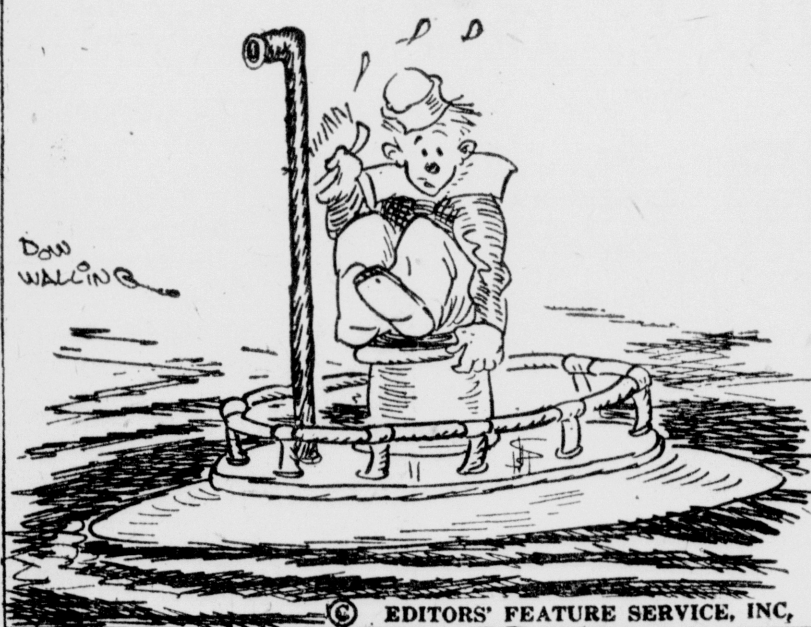

—why not really wear them instead of using our shoulders for coat hangers?

It's all very well for a woman to have a clothes allowance—but she mustn't make too much of one. Allow for fullness and be sure and allow for the salesgirl. It's her business to sell you whatever she has and it's yours to look in the glass without shying!

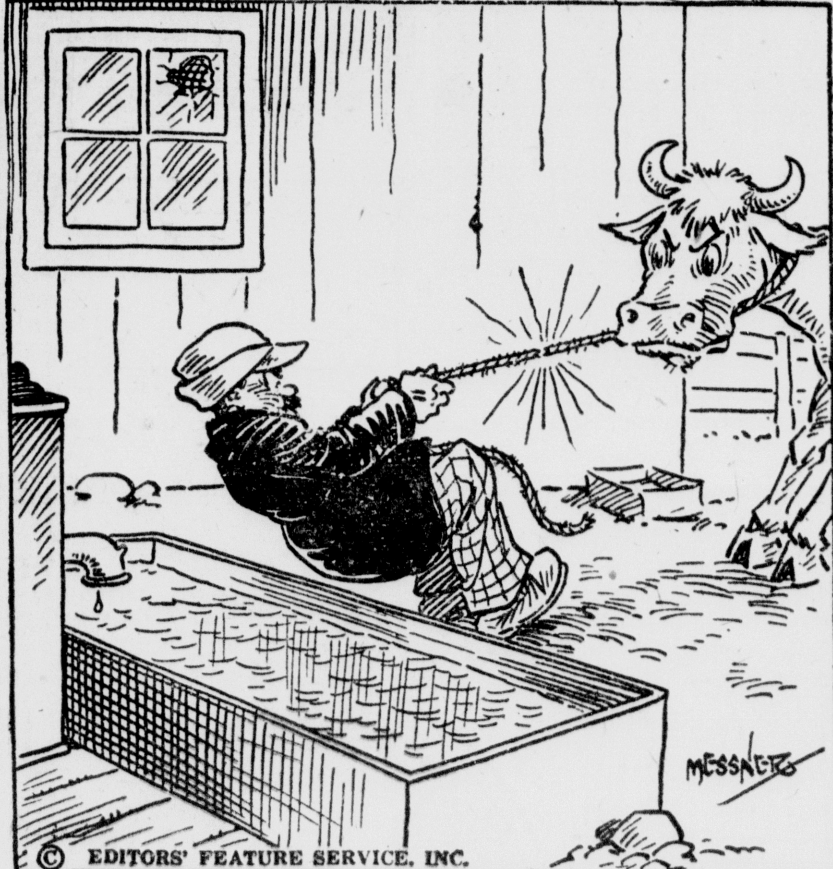

There is the woman who knows that it isn't what you pay for a dress, but whether you ever intend to!

NEW LIBRARIAN WILL COME HERE WITH HIGH RECOMMENDATIONS

Miss Mildred Sandoe Has Wide Experience In Library Work

MISS MILDRED W. SANDOE

With the arrival of Miss Mildred W. Sandoe, Grandview Heights, Columbus, to enter her work as Green County District Librarian here April 1, purchase and cataloging of the new supplies of books necessary for county distribution will begin.

Miss Sandoe is a graduate of Simmons College and subsequently a library school graduate. In addition to her college and library school training, she has had five years of valuable experience. First as general assistant in the New York Public Library, she became acquainted with methods of library administration and learned extension service that included hospital and mill work. Later as children's librarian in Savannah, she had the responsibility both of branch work in the city and of rural work.

Miss Sandoe is leaving a position as librarian of Grandview Heights Public Library, Columbus, to become Green County District Librarian. In her recent position she has attracted attention in library circles for successful, well organized club.

branch and school work, in addition to her work as executive of the central library.

Each position that Miss Sandoe has held has meant a distinct advance in responsibility and in administrative scope, according to library board members. She is deeply interested in hopes and plans for the new Green County Library District and looks upon this opportunity as a chance to do "splendid constructive work."

Members of the County District Library feel themselves fortunate in obtaining the services of Miss Sandoe as head librarian. In response to letters sent to a number of the leading library schools of the country and to notices inserted in several library journals, many applications for the position were received both by the secretary of the County District Board and by the state board of examiners. Miss Sandoe was recommended to the county board from two different sources. In a letter from the Simmons College School of Library Science, she is mentioned with confidence as "tried and found successful in library administration." Here this reply from Simmons College, members of the state library staff had spoken with praise of the excellent judgment and the quiet organizing ability she had shown at Grandview Heights.

In view of these recommendations the board made inquiry as to Miss Sandoe's possible interest in the Green County position. She came to Xenia to talk with the members about the district plans and the library science involved. Miss Sandoe's application to the state board of library examiners for county district library work in this district followed this interview.

In giving notice that the state board had granted her a certificate as county district librarian, Herbert S. Henschberg, state librarian, wrote that no other applicants up to date had met the complete requirements set by the examining board.

PENALTY IN DIVINE THE SAME AS CIVIL LAW SAYS PASTOR

"If we believe in law, we must believe in penalty for breaking the law. If we would use the same line of thought toward the civil law as the modern twentieth century reasoning concerning religion, namely, that God is too good to punish a soul forever, we would have to do away with our jails, penitentiaries, judges, justices, courts and policemen, relegating punishment to the rear as a barbarous custom and rule our state by love. It would not be long till the state would be filled with criminals and thugs, and all honest respectable people would be in danger."

"These were some of the statements of the Rev. W. G. Bennett, evangelist, at the Church of the Nazarene, Tuesday night. He took as his text, the three words 'should not perish' taken from John 3: 16.

"As this is contrary to good judgment in the realm of civil law, so is it the realm of Divine law. God must protect His own children and His only way is separation of the just from the unjust. He has provided every means for man's salvation. And everyone who is unsaved, is unsaved because he will not be saved. And there is no other alternative but to be separated from His presence forever."

Four persons raised their hands for the prayer of the church during the impressive service. "Could we sum up the destruction of the great disasters of the world's history, the San Francisco earthquake, the Japanese earthquake, the Iroquois Theater fire, the Galveston flood, etc., we would get some faint idea of what it would mean for a soul to perish 'forever,' the evangelist said. Preceding the sermon, Mrs. E. H. Landgrave and Miss Edna Gilley sang a duet "The Callesth Thee." Services are held each night at 7:30 except Saturday.

AMERICAN IDEALS DISCUSSED AT MEET

The question as to whether American people are striving for ideals or are just "money-grabbers" as thought by many foreigners, was ably discussed by J. B. Gilbert, Dayton, in the main address at Xenia Kiwanis Club, Tuesday night.

The speaker brought out the point that American hospitals, schools and other structures for the benefit of American citizens, are the result of concentrated wealth set aside for these purposes.

Mr. Gilbert, who is with the Crawford, MacGregor and Canby Co., Dayton, attended the meeting with three other Daytonians. His address was the chief feature of the after-dinner program.

READ THIS FIRST:

SYLVIA STARR, who looks like a girl, but isn't one, has been engaged to Randall Phelps for a year, who he asks her to break their engagement. He tells her that he has fallen in love with her best friend, FAY SHIRLEY.

Heart-broken, Sylvia gives him up, greatly to the satisfaction of her Aunt Agony, who has brought her up. Aunt Agony insists that Ranny is a lazy good-for-nothing, and advises her niece to marry PETER WILK, a well-to-do bachelor, several years older than the girl.

As the time draws near for the wedding of Fay and Ranny, Fay seems less and less eager for the marriage. She admits to Sylvia that she and Ranny don't care so much for each other as they once thought they did. And Sylvia discovers that he is secretly seeing a great deal of EDDIE CARTER, a former sweetheart of hers.

On the 10th of May, which is Sylvia's twenty-second birthday, Peter gives a picnic supper for her. Fay and Ranny, slightly tipsy, arrive late.

The crowd pair off to play hide-and-seek, like children, in the dark woods; and Sylvia, during the course of the evening, finds herself alone with Ranny. He tells her that he and Fay have made up their minds that they don't love each other, and says that he never really cared for anyone but Sylvia, and she readily suggests that they run away together that night and be married. So they do. They spend all night sitting in Ranny's car, and in the morning they get a license and are married; and they begin their honeymoon at a little country inn.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.)

CHAPTER VIII

THEY were wonderfully happy for that first week of their honeymoon.

Ranny was in love with Sylvia as she had never dreamed he could be in love with any woman. She had always thought that most of the love was on her side.

But now he seemed to hate to let her out of his sight. He would lie for hours with his head in her lap while she read to him and stroked his hair with her fingers.

When they went on walks he would stop suddenly and take her in his arms, crushing her to him until she ached. His hand would find hers under the tablecloth when they sat waiting for their meals in the quaint little dining room of the inn. Deep silences would come between them—silences that thundered their love to each other.

"I must be dreaming—I'm so happy!" Sylvia would think to herself, sometimes, when she was alone. And she would raise her left hand to see if she really had a wedding ring—

"I MUST BE DREAMING," SHE THOUGHT

to make sure that she really was Ranny's wife.

At the end of the first week a letter came from Aunt Agony.

"My dear child," she wrote, "I think you have made a terrible mistake. But if you really care for Randall Phelps (although I don't see how you can, after the way he has treated you), I am glad for you. And I hope you will always be happy. However, if anything does come up, just remember that your aunt has always taken care of you and always will, if the need arises—and a friend in need is a friend indeed."

"Affectionately, your aunt," "AGNES STARR."

Sylvia hid the letter from Ranny, but he found it one morning when he was rummaging in her things, hunting for a nail file.

"Well, the old girl thinks a lot of me, doesn't she?" he observed, scratching his blond head in a shamed sort of way.

Sylvia hid the letter from Ranny, but he found it one morning when he was rummaging in her things, hunting for a nail file.

"She doesn't know you, or she wouldn't write things like that!" she cried, loyally. "She thinks that because you're so good-looking you must be bad. She says there never was a good-looking man who knew how to behave himself."

"Well, show her a thing or two won't we?" Ranny asked, his face buried in the warm perfume of Sylvia's hair. "We won't look at another woman ever, will we?"

His bride shook her head. "You won't, really, will you, Ranny? I'm so jealous," she confessed, and her eyes were filled with a desperate appeal. "You don't know how jealous I am of you, darling."

"Darling, yourself!" Ranny answered, and patted her shoulder and looked at her as if she were the most delightful and beautiful thing in the world.

And she was, those first heavenly days. Happiness had made her blossom and flower with a new loveliness, much as sunshine makes a rose-bud bloom.

"I hate to think of going back home," she said one day when they were sitting side by side on an old fence, to rest, after a long walk under the hot May sky. "I hate to think of giving you up to other people—I hate to think of sharing you with your new friends, and your business friends, and your father and your mother."

He put his hand into his inside coat pocket and drew out an envelope. "That reminds me," he said, "I had a letter from Mother today."

He handed it to her.

"I had one from Fay Shirley, too," he added, in a queer tone.

Sylvia stared at him, her deep violet eyes wide with surprise.

"You did," she cried, "let's see it."

He looked at her, smiling, and slowly shook his head.

"Well, why not?" Sylvia asked, and he shrugged his shoulders, good-naturedly.

"My letter," he explained. "It was sent to me, my dear."

But, so was the one from your mother," she threw back at him.

"Yes, but I wanted you to see that one," he answered.

Sylvia's chin shook, and she flushed. "And you don't want me to see the one from Fay? There's something in it that you can't show me?" she asked.

Once more he shrugged his handsome shoulders in that amused way, and laughed.

"No, there's nothing in it that you couldn't see. But I want you to know right from the beginning of our married life that my letters belong to me—and that you're not to open them or look at them unless I show them to you," he said. "One of the great troubles with married life is that very often neither the husband nor the wife has any more privacy than a goldfish."

She stood perfectly still for a moment, blinking back the hot tears that rose to her eyes. Through them she could see the shimmering blue and gold and green of the landscape, and she wondered how the world could look so beautiful and peaceful when life could be so cruel and sharp—some times.

"But Ranny," she said to him when she could control her voice, "I don't understand you. You talk as if marriage were a sort of warfare—as if the husband and wife were enemies—hiding their secrets from each other. It's friendship, isn't it, first of all?"

He shook his head. "No—there are no friendships between men and women," he answered her. "There's only love—or indifference."

Sylvia remembered that in the week that followed.

On the second Monday of the honeymoon Ranny woke up with a headache.

"I guess I've slept too much the last week," he explained, aloud, to himself. "I'm not used to going to bed every night at 9 o'clock, the way we do up here in this God-forsaken place."

Sylvia, who was brushing her dark, satiny hair, at the mirror, tossed it back out of her eyes and looked at him with a hurt expression written on her mirror-like face.

To call this heavenly little sanctuary a God-forsaken place! Why, it had been the happiest spot she had ever found. She loved every bit of it, from the windows with their white-dotted muslin curtains to the cool, dark dining room with its beamed ceiling and tiny tables. She loved it because she had spent the most wonderful week of her life here with Ranny.

"How would you like to go back to town?" he said, as he got out of bed and reached for his pipe and dressing gown, "today?—I'm sick of doing nothing but watch the grass grow. How about you?"

If Sylvia had told the truth, she would have said that there was nothing in the world she liked more than to watch the grass grow, as Ranny put it. She had never done anything so pleasant as to walk through the country lanes and across the green fields with Ranny, talking to him lazily, or reading to him as they lolled under a tree or a hedge.

But she would never admit it, she told herself proudly. If he was tired of the country and the quiet, it meant that he was tired of being with her. It meant that he was sick and tired of the honeymoon and wanted to get back to the things he was used to—the crowds of people, the jazz, the noisy streets of the city and the friends he had there.

"It's sick of me," Sylvia quietly told herself the truth.

But her smile had never been more brilliant than when she looked at him with those flinty eyes of hers and said: "Ranny, I'm lonesome for town, too. I'll pack this morning!"

Ranny was standing out on the lawn, smoking. He had told her to send the bags down by the bell-boy when they were ready.

She lit her quivering lip as she stood there, looking down at his well-loved head.

He turned and, drawn by that look, raised his head and saw her.

"Don't forget my khaki coat in the closet, Sylvie," he called.

She got it. As she took it down from the hanger something in its inside pocket rustled, and Sylvia put her hand in and pulled it out.

It was Fay's letter!

Not stopping to read it then, and almost without thinking what she was doing, she put it into her handbag and ran down to Ranny.
